OWNERSHIP over EXPLOITATION

You deserve the benefits of content
you have created; why are you letting networks profit off of your ideas, writing, humour, and outrage?

You own what you create.

Existing social networks are incredibly expensive to run. They must make a profit by charging you for access or selling your attention. What if it was inexpensive?

DECENTRALIZATION
not RENT-SEEKING

You pay only when you want.

SELF-CONTROL not CENSORSHIP

You ought to have the right to speak freely.
You also ought to have the right to curate,
filter, and block what is shown to you.

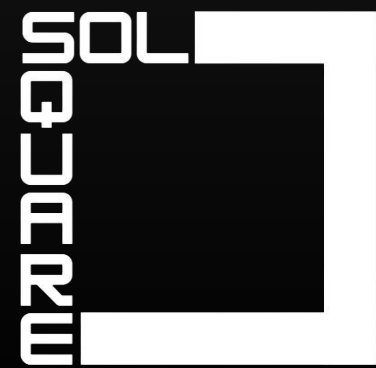

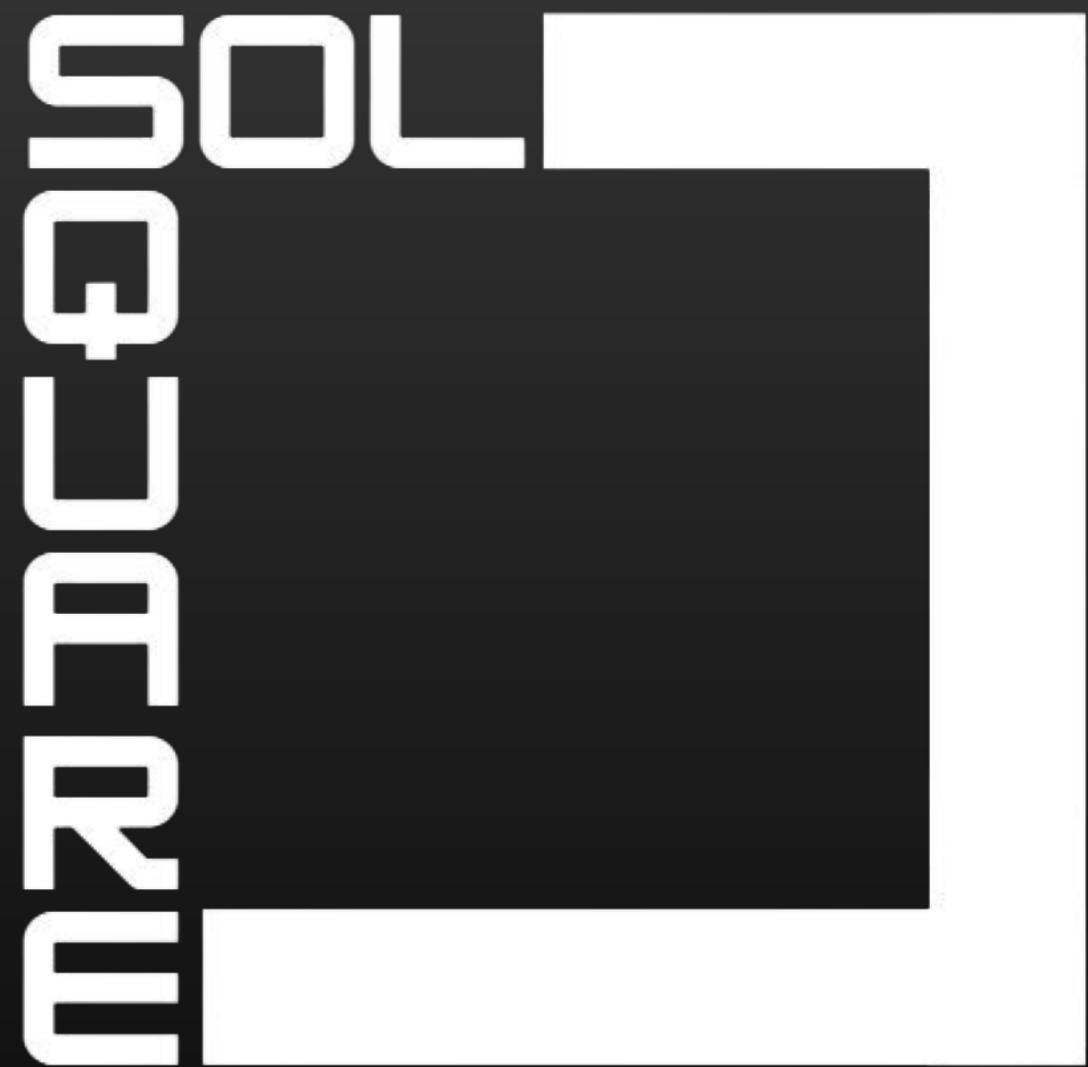

You decide what you say.
You decide what you see.

If someone is going to pay to get something in front of you, don't you think you have the right to know who paid for it, and how much it cost?
